5. DIRECTOR OF EDUCATION:

Mr Ian Budd, Director of Education from Flintshire County Council, attended the meeting to provide Councillors with some background, and further information on the proposed closure of Ysgol Picton, Mornant. In a full and frank discussion, Mr Budd gave members full details of the procedures involved in the decision making by the Local Authority. At present, the Authority is developing the Consultation paper which would be prepared for discussions with the school Governors, pupils' parents and other interested parties. Mr Budd confirmed that the Authority have entered this process with no pre-determined decision, and all options would be considered. The school has currently hit a number of the criteria for a school organisational review, however all options were still on the table for consideration - status quo, collaboration, closure.

The next stage of this process was for the school Head-teacher and Governors to review the data that has produced the report. A copy of this report will then be available for the Community Council to review and comment, or make any representations.

Members did comment that should the school eventually close, they felt the Welsh language provision in the area would cease, at a time when there is significant advertising campaigns for adults to learn the language. Mr Budd answered that it was not the Local Authority that was behind the advertising, but the colleges/schools themselves.

In closing the discussions, it was stressed that no outcome had yet been made, and all options would be considered before the Local Authority comes to its final decision.

The Chairman thanked Mr Budd for his attendance.
